

JMC and CMP have entered into a contractual agreement including exclusive marketing rights of the HEARTROID systems in Korea.

Yokohama, Japan

JMC, state-of-the-art 3D printing firm and manufacturer of the cardiac catheter training kit "HEARTROID," and CMP Trading Co., Ltd. importer and distributor of medical devices based in Korea, have entered into a contractual agreement including exclusive marketing rights of the HEARTROID systems in Korea.

CMP Trading Co., Ltd. carries sales experience in the medical device market exceeding 30 years, and has business relationships with university hospitals and medical institutions nationwide. In addition, the company boasts a strong network covering training facilities, laboratories, medical device companies and health care practitioners. By the formalization of this contract, JMC will be able to strengthen the sales network of the HEARTROID systems in Korea.

This agreement will allow expansion of sales of both companies in Korea's domestic cardiovascular domain, and is expected to contribute to the improvement of therapeutic technology for heart disease which is known to be increasing in Korea.

(About HEARTROID)

The HEARTROID is a cardiac catheter simulator system developed by the company in collaboration with the National University Corporation of the Osaka University Graduate School of Medicine and Fuyo Corporation. It allows realistic simulated catheter operation easily anywhere, from full-scale training under fluoroscopic imaging to desk-top demonstration training. The system is currently in use by physicians and medical students but also in R&D and sales promotion by multiple global medical device manufacturers. The simulator is exempt from "Medical Equipment" requirements under the Pharmaceutical Affairs Law ("Law Concerning the Quality, Effectiveness and Safety Assurance, etc. of Medicines, Medical Equipment, etc.").
